

Discover Edinburgh's latest green event space

Later this year the new John Hope Gateway visitor facility will be opening at the Royal Botanic Garden Edinburgh. The new 190-seat event space and 40-seat VIP room, is part of a £15.7 million development project, which has been designed according to principles of green construction and sustainability and provides a spectacular backdrop for corporate and private events.

- ✿ Ideally located, it is just 1.5 miles from Princes Street, Edinburgh.
- ✿ Menus are created to incorporate the finest locally sourced Scottish produce.
- ✿ New VIP Room offers state of the art AV facilities - perfect for conferences and meetings.
- ✿ The Garden currently welcomes over 660,000 visitors each year and hosts over 700 annual events.
- ✿ The new John Hope Gateway facility commemorates Royal Botanic Garden Edinburgh's 18th century Regius Keeper, Professor John Hope.
- ✿ The new venue will offer unrivalled views of Edinburgh and the botanic garden.
- ✿ The new building is a showcase for sustainable design, with features such as a biomass boiler, rain water harvesting, a wind turbine, solar collectors and photovoltaic solar panels.
- ✿ The building has a roof garden planted with sedum, effectively increasing the area of green space in the Garden and providing a phenomenal space for outdoor entertaining!
- ✿ Bespoke chairs and tables have been designed for the restaurant utilising timber previously felled and seasoned from the four Royal Botanic Gardens of Scotland.
