Landscape Drawings, Robert Kaye Greville (1794-1866)

Greville was born at Bishop Auckland, County Durham and studied medicine at London and Edinburgh; however, being of independent means he chose to pursue his botanical interests instead. He moved to Edinburgh in 1816 and became heavily involved with the Botanical Society of Edinburgh of which, along with John Hutton Balfour, he was a founder member.

This collection consists of 63 graphite drawings on toned paper with white gouache highlights, mainly landscapes from Scotland, Wales and the north of England. The drawings are dated between 1834 and 1852.

The collection was donated to RBGE in 1920 by Greville's family. A selection were exhibited at a meeting of the Botanical Society of Edinburgh by Mr William Evans on the 18th November 1920.
